This comprehensive guide provides all the details about this full-time role, including eligibility criteria, salary benefits, application process, and associated costs, to help you make an informed decision about this overseas career move.

Position Details, Eligibility, and Application Process

Position Overview

This is a full-time Courier Delivery Specialist role with a reputable transportation company in Berlin, Germany. The company is currently looking to fill 10-15 vacancies, making this an excellent opportunity for qualified Indian professionals seeking to build a career abroad. As a Courier Delivery Specialist, you will be responsible for delivering packages and parcels across Berlin, requiring both driving and logistics management skills.

Eligibility Requirements

Personal Qualifications
Candidates must be below 35 years of age, which aligns with Germany's immigration policies favoring younger professionals who can contribute to the workforce for a longer period. This age requirement also ensures better adaptability to a new working environment and culture.

Educational Background
A Bachelor's Degree is preferred, ideally in Logistics, Supply Chain Management, Commerce, or Business Administration. This educational background provides the necessary theoretical knowledge to understand the logistics industry and its operations.

Professional Experience
Applicants should have 2-5 years of professional experience, with a minimum of 2 years in commercial driving. A valid Light Motor Vehicle (LMV) or Heavy Motor Vehicle (HMV) driving license is mandatory, with HMV being preferred for better career advancement opportunities.

Language Proficiency
A B1 level German language certification from recognized institutions like Goethe, Telc, or OSD is required, with the certification not being older than 3 months. This ensures you can communicate effectively in the German workplace and integrate into society.

Compensation and Working Conditions

The position offers a competitive salary of €14 per hour, totaling approximately €2,912 per month for a standard 208-hour work month. This compensation package is aligned with German labor standards and provides a comfortable living wage in Berlin. The working hours adhere to German labor laws, ensuring a proper work-life balance while maximizing earning potential.
